To whom it may concern;

I am often approached to test products for the treatment of bed bugs most of which are not worth my time. To say the least I was very skeptical when I was first asked to give the ActiveGuard mattress liner a try. Because of the history of bogus products being introduced into the marketplace to make a "quick buck" on the fears of the consumer, I investigated the ActiveGuard mattress liner like a detective investigates a crime. I am pleased to say that ActiveGuard mattress liners DID NOT fail to produce a positive result. ActiveGuard mattress liners DO NOT fall into the category of being a bogus product, so much so that I have made it a protocol product on all of our bed bug treatments.

Since adding ActiveGuard mattress liners to our standard bed bug treatment protocol our re-infestation percentage went from .03% to .01% and the one time that there was a problem it could not be attributed to a failure of your product but a failure to not use your product, the customer removed the ActiveGuard mattress liner the day it was installed.

It is not often that I get the opportunity to write a letter expressing my gratitude for a product, but I truly believe in the value that ActiveGuard mattress liners have added to our bed bug treatment services. Thank You for a product that truly delivers on its promises.
